What to Do between games? How about the fastest man/fastest woman and longest pull (men/women) contest? At the top of the polo fields, above fields 1,2, and 3. test your speed and length against the competition. preliminary rounds will be held after each round of play. Up to two players from each team may compete in each contest, so send your runningest, pullingest players. Finals will be held Sunday during halftime of Open Finals.

From the UPA

Welcome to the Atlanta Polo Fields in lovely Cumming, GA for the 2002 Ultimate Players Association Junior National Invitational Tournament. The field of 16 open and 7 girls teams is set and ready to go crank it up. This is the 5th UPA Junior National Invite and, with teams attending from 11 states and Canada, it looks to be the most competitive yet. The polo fields are the site for the Atlanta Flying Disc Club's top college and club event, Terminus, which is held in March of each year. The Junior Invite is a bonus event for the AFDC, who organizes and runs many leagues and tournaments throughout the year, and this event is certainly one which many volunteers are involved and proud to be a part of. Please take the time and make the effort to thank any of those generous folks who are helping to make this annual event run smoothly.

The planning and organizing of this event has been in full swing since the beginning of the year, with the AFDC and the UPA partnering to put on the highest quality event possible. A huge debt of gratitude should be given to Romey Connell, the tournament tireless director, and Will Deaver, the UPA's always busy Championship Director, for their efforts in bringing this event to fruition.

Thanks also goes out to the teams attending this year, as well. With all the paperwork, lining up of chaperons, fund-raising efforts and cost involved, it takes commitment from you players to get to Atlanta to compete. The teams attending this year's event are coming from far and wide, and this is a clear sign that the junior division is growing, rapidly, in fact. Congratulations on being part of building the future of Ultimate, and thank you.

Finally, a heart-felt thank you to all the adults involved as coaches, chaperons, volunteers, and most importantly, as parents. An event such as this would never happen without you.

As Ultimate players, you are representatives of something unique -- a sport where you have control of the game, how it is played, as well as officiated. Take full advantage of the opportunity offered here this weekend, to play hard against new opponents, make new friends of them (perhaps some of who will be future opponents or even teammates in college), and embrace the honor of playing the juniors, game at its highest level. Make the most of this occasion, competing with tremendous effort, heart, and sportsmanship. In short, value this for what it is ... a celebration of competition ... Ultimate style!

Oh, and do take advantage of the opportunity to introduce yourself to me. For as the UPA's junior national director, I want to meet those who are part of this sports, bright future.

Thanks to all of you for being here.

Ask the TD

Q: Romey, I see all of the directions posted on the web site, but everything is mileage and highways. How long is it really going to take us to get from the airport to the tournament hotel or to the fields?

A: As long as you aren't in rush hour (which I would broadly define on a Friday as approximately 3:30 - 6:30 p.m.), I would say that you're looking at approximately 50 minutes from the airport to the tournament hotel. If you drive like I do, you might be able to make it in 40, but I wouldn't try that with a bunch of kids in the van. I'd add another 10 minutes if you're bypassing the hotel and going straight to the fields. If you are driving in rush hour, you can expect to add anywhere from 15 to 45 minutes to these times, depending on whether some idiot stalls his Yugo in the middle of GA 400, or hits another driver while mired in a cell phone conversation. I'd say 10-15 minutes from the tournament hotel to the fields.

Q: Is there anywhere to get some decent food near the hotel?

A: There is a Roadhouse Grill right in front of the hotel - a typical chicken, steak and ribs place with appetizers and large salads in the $5-8 range, entrees from $12-18, and sandwiches from $6-$8. Just across the street and slightly closer to GA 400 is a Chinese Restaurant called China Bistro - it is supposed to be pretty good, with appetizers and salads from $4-9, and entrees from $8-16; several vegetarian options here. In the same center as China Bistro is Mexi-Cali grill - a burrito/quesadilla/taco place with fresh food that is pretty good. Most items are priced from $2-7, with a couple of more expensive choices. They have a few vegetarian options.

Q: But Romey, my parents gave me only $69 to spend for the entire weekend. Once I pitch in for my room and the rental, and buy a disc or a shirt at the tourney, I'm going to have only about $10.69 to allocate towards food. When I say I'm looking for food, I mean cheap. Really cheap!

A: No problemo. Just slightly to the west (away from GA 400) of the tourney hotel are a McDonald's and a Chick Fil-A. You can even walk there if you don't want to burn any gas. If you don't like those places, you'll have to hitchhike back to GA 400 and go one exit south to Exit 10 (Old Milton Parkway) - most all of the fast food joints are represented there. That's about as cheap as it gets unless you stock up on donuts or croissants at the free continental breakfast, and put them in the microwave when you get back from playing Saturday. Maybe they'll have fruit there as well. Obviously, the aforementioned continental breakfast is the cheap way to eat when you get up, and I asked them to set up extra tables in case you all show up at once.

Q: Will there be food at the party, in case I'm running late Saturday night and don't have time to eat?

A: Actually, I thought long and hard about whether to serve dinner at the party. Ultimately, I decided against it, primarily because there is such a large group of persons, some staying at different places, and teams are finishing at different times Saturday afternoon. I thought it would be difficult to get all parties to another place at a specific time for a sit-down affair. So, you are on your own for dinner and I would suggest one of the places mentioned above. However, there will be quite a bit of food to eat at the party, prepared by Ultimate Culinary Solutions, the outfit selling food at the fields. Chef Andy Grimes is known for preparing good food for Ultimate parties, and if you do happen to skip dinner, there probably will be enough good chow at the party to fill you up, as long as you don't arrive too late. We'll also have juice, soda, Gatorade or Powerade (whichever is on sale), water and probably lemonade.

Q: One more thing while we're talking about food. Will there be free food at the fields?

A: You'll have nothing, Spalding, and like it! Seriously, though, there will be some fruit (bananas and oranges) and bagels. We'll have enough for each player to have one bagel and one piece of fruit each day. To the extent that some people don't eat it, that will mean more free food for you scavengers. We'll be providing free water at the fields as well.

Q: We like to stock up on things before we hit the fields. Is there any place to get groceries, beverages or other things that we might need?

A: Good question; I like to stock up, too. There is a humongous Wal-Mart Super Center just west of the tourney hotel, right next to the Chick

Fil-A and McDonald's I mentioned above. They have a bakery, produce and all sorts of grocery items (including sports drinks), as well as those tighty whiteys or panties that you may have left behind in your rush to pack up and get out of town. There also are a couple of big grocery stores on Atlanta Highway (GA Route 9), on the way to the fields. There is a Kroger on the right, about a mile or so before you turn onto Post Road (which leads to the fields). There also is a Publix on the left, just before you turn onto Post Road. You cannot miss these places.

Q: As a result of my fabulous layout D today, I have a very sore wrist and some major league raspberries. Is there a drug store nearby?

A: Despite the fact that the disc was probably way OB anyway, I feel your pain. Both of the large grocery stores (Kroger and Publix), as well as the Wal-Mart, mentioned above probably have what you need. Also, if you keep going west from the tourney hotel, just after you pass the Wal-Mart, you will see and Eckerd's drug store.

Q: If we come in early enough on Friday, is it cool for us to come up to the fields and throw around or practice for a while?

A: By all means. You might want to give us a little bit of time to knock out some of the field lining, but I'd say that anytime after 1:00 or so, there should be plenty of space out there for you to run around, do drills and throw some of your swill around.

Q: Our team is not really from the south, but I have heard so much about those southern rednecks. Is there any place we can go to find these people? I think it would be very interesting to see some of them.

A: Two quick points and then I'll get to your question. First, no place has the market cornered on rednecks. They might not talk with that same funny drawl everywhere, but just about every city or town in the country has its share of rednecks, some more than others. It's all about attitude and ignorance, not just zip codes. Second, there are a lot of transplants in Atlanta – people who originally hailed from cities and towns just like yours, but got tired of the crappy weather, the cost of living or both. Many of these people have bred and produced children who aren't necessarily southern by their upbringing, notwithstanding where they hail from. Having said that, you don't have to venture too far from downtown Atlanta in any direction to find some real southern rednecks. North Alpharetta (where the tourney hotel is) or Cumming (where the fields are) definitely will do. My first choice would be the Wal-Mart near the hotel, followed closely by the Publix near the fields, for serious redneck watching. If you hang out in Wal-Mart long enough (15 minutes should suffice if you go at the right time), chances are that you'll get to see a genuine redneck mom open up a can of whoop a@@ on some misbehaving redneck kid, who may have broken into one of the PlayStation game cases, or busted open a box of chocolates for an in-store snack. Just stop in, grab a soda, walk around a bit and make your move when you hear the first scream.

Q: All of this is really helpful stuff, but since you've been playing in Ultimate tournaments since before I was born, is there any advice that you can give us?

A: I'll start with a few clichés and then try to explain. Stay up late and get up early. Run your fastest and play your hardest every minute you are on the field, and when you aren't on the field, yell loudly from the sideline. Make some friends and then go make some more.

Really, how many times are you going to Junior Nationals? Once, maybe twice if you're lucky. EVER! You're only young and full of energy for so long; after that, you have to work at it. You have all summer to rest up, not to mention the rest of your life, so try to make the most of every minute when you go to this tournament (Not bad advice for anything you do, really.). It may sound far fetched, but there is no guarantee that you or anyone else will be here next year or even next week for that matter. Anything can happen, so take advantage of every possible opportunity to have fun and to do things you really enjoy doing, and enjoy your time with your friends – old ones and new ones. Nothing is worse than getting home late Sunday night wishing you played harder or left your feet that one chance you had but didn't do so for some lame reason like you were too tired or just didn't want to bother
