WEATHER FORECAST !!

The weather forecast for the rest of the week is just fantastic : sun, sun .....!!

WELCOME.

On behalf of the WFDF Ultimate and Guts committees, we would like to welcome all players, supporters and spectators to the fifth bi-annual WFDF Ultimate and Guts World Championship. We trust that your first day of competition was characterized by keen competition, fair, hard play and the meeting of many new friends.

There are 650 competitors from thirteen countries represented in this week's activities. Although ultimate is only 22 years old, there are currently over 50.000 individuals playing in over 25 countries throughout the world. Guts, the grand-daddy at all disc sports, is over thirty years old and is enjoying a revival so interest.

We would like to thank our hosts, the Norske Frisbee disc Forbund and Tournament Director Eirik Pettersen and his staff for their hard work in organizing this most memorable event.

"The most fun wins."

ULTIMATE

Comment: Ultimate is a team sport in which the team with the higher point total at the end of the game wins. It is played with 2 teams of 7 players on a rectangular field with an endzone at each end. A goal, worth 1 point, is scored when a player/thrower passes the disc to a teammate and it is successfully caught within the confines of the endzone his team is attacking. The disc may be advanced solely by passing the disc from one player to another. A player may not run while in possession of the disc. While the team in possession of the disc seeks to advance the disc toward the endzone it is attacking, the opposing team seeks to thwart advancement and obtain possession by forcing a turnover. A turnover results whenever a pass is incomplete, caught or knocked down by an opposing player, touches the ground at any point or is caught by a player out-of-bounds. No overt contact or tackling is allowed. The sport is played on a self-officiated basis, with no referees. All line violation, possession and foul calls are made by the players on the playing field.

GUTS

Comment: Guts is a sport played between 2 teams of 1 to 5 players each. The objective is to be the first team to score 21 points. To start play, each team lines up facing each other 14 meters apart. Play is accomplished by a player attempting to throw the disc toward or at the opposing team and within the reach of at least 1 player of that team, in such a manner that the opposing team cannot make a clean catch. Scoring is contingent on the success or failure of the throwing team. A good throw, without a catch, results in a point for the throwing team and a bad throw results in a point for the receiving team.

PLAYDISC

THE OFFICIAL TOURNAMENT NEWSPAPER OF THE WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS & GUTS

FRANZ BECKENBAUER NEW TRAINER FOR ARGENTINIAN GUTS TEAM.

Munich, July 11.

The successful West-German football trainer has signed a two year contract with the Argentinian Frisbee Organization to train their Guts Team.

"Some of the most talented gorillaes I've ever seen", says Beckenbauer.

NORWEGIAN RECORD: 623% INCREASE!

PLAYDISC, the new daily frisbee paper, is definitely the fastest growing paper this summer. "623% new readers since the start two days ago is just unbelievable", says A. Nordland, Chief Editor of the largest norwegian paper Aftenposten. "If we keep on like this, we have to set up an international staff soon", says editor Magnus Rynning-Tønnessen, smiling in his editorial chair, size junior.

HISTORY OF ULTIMATE

The WFDF Chairman, ULTIMATE COMMITTEE, NOB RAUCH, is slightly sceptical to Jan E. Rydnings presentation of "The Real Ultimate Story". "I've not really got this version confirmed, so I will have to do some more investigations", says NOB, who presents his own version on page 3.

The 1990 World Championships here in Oslo marks the first time there has been a separate Masters Division in the Ultimate competition. It has been noted that the Masters group is the fastest growing group in Ultimate circles today, a trend expected to continue for quite some time (Father Time is on our side!).

To commemorate this event, we reprint the following letter from the recent UPA Newsletter:

Hey UPA Dudes:

I have this great idea. Ultimate players are getting older, right? I mean, they've got this whole Masters thing now, which is an excellent idea because it gives us an excuse to ship some dead weight to Oslo for a week so they don't ruin summer league for the rest of us by going on endlessly about how great life was back in the days when they used to play Ultimate barefoot with a stone frisbee on asphalt parking lots covered with melted tar and bits of broken glass.

So anyway, now they're talking about on-field babysitting services so that players with families can continue to participate well into their 30's and 40's, until their children are old enough to totally shut them down. But what happens when Ultimate players get really old? We need a marketing strategy that will target Ultimate players when they become senior citizens. After all, marketing is what sports are all about.

So here it is ... Ultimate Memorial Gardens, the final resting place for Ultimate players. Picture a disc-shaped headstone with the inscription "Beloved friend, husband and handler," or better yet, a black granite hand coming out of the ground holding a disc inscribed "Eternally Horizontal." I even have some ideas for personalized epitaphs. Check these out:

Here lies Suzanne / Under this slab
She bought the farm / But made the grab.

Here lies Andy / Under the gravel
He'll never call / Another travel.

Getty laid out hard / Misjudged the spin
Now check his feet / I think he's in.

What happened to Steve / Nobody knows
He died suddenly / Just like his throws.

Stu was slow / But had good touch
He's slower now / But not by much.

Rick was a load / He hardly moved
Now that he's dead / Our team's improved.

So what do you think? Better let me know soon, because these Masters players aren't getting any younger, if you know what I mean.

Scott Gurst, Rockville, MD, USA "

TODAYS MATCH.

TUESDAYS MATCH IN GUTS, SWEDEN-CANADA.

Last World Champion, Sweden, met Canada, number two in the same tournament.

The PLAYDISC journalist saw the match, and elected it to the most entertaining game on tuesday. It was a match filled with excitement, adrenaline and GUTS.

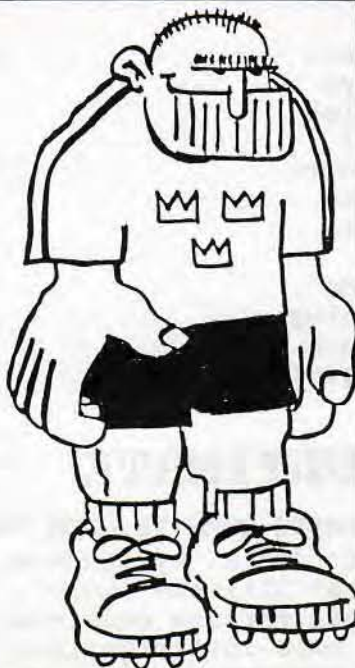

Even with Canadiens self-confidence and quotations like "There is nothing I cant stop", they couldnt stop the swedich machine.

The first sett was marked with some personal foultts on the swedish side, but in spite of that, the swedes kept following the Canadiens.

But in the next two setts, the swedish machinery started. Almost nothing could stop the swedish Vikings.

The match ended with victory to the Swedish team. 2-1 (16-18,15-7,15-9)

THANK'S FOR A GIANT BATTLE, BOYS!

by Robert L. "Nob" Rauch

Ultimate was invented in 1968 by students at Columbia High School in Maplewood, NJ, USA who sought to combine the fun of playing frisbee with the challenge of conventional competitive sports. From its modest beginning in a high school parking lot the sport spread to other local high schools. CHS graduates later introduced the game to their respective colleges and universities. The first intercollegiate competition was held in 1972 between Princeton and Rutgers, on the 103rd anniversary and on the exact site of the first intercollegiate American football game.

By 1975, approximately 25 teams had been organized and the first college championship was held. The sport continued to spread, with many highly competitive club teams forming as college players graduated. The first U.S. national championship was held in 1977; the Ultimate Players Association (UPA) was formed in 1979 to organize, promote and direct the sport of Ultimate. It was the period of the late seventies and early eighties that the first European teams started. The World Flying Disc Federation (WFDF) was formed in 1985 to oversee all international disc sports and provide a forum for communication.

The first world championship was held in Gothenburg, Sweden in 1983. Subsequent championships have been held in 1984 in Lucerne, Switzerland, in 1986 in Colchester, England and in 1988 in Leuven, Belgium. This year in Oslo, there are over 650 competitors from thirteen countries in four divisions: open, women, masters and juniors. Ultimate is played currently in over twenty-five countries in six continents on a competitive basis. It is estimated that over 50,000 enthusiasts on 3,000 teams actively participate in Ultimate.

ROCKEFELLER Late night W'N'SDAY.

YEAH!!!! This was indeed a "GOOD GAME!!"
It was nice to see how ULTIMATE & GUTS metted together to a late night show in the spirit of good sportsmanship and fair play.
No "throw out's, and step overs", although the game was stretched to it's limits.
The time cap didn't show, and I think some of you are sorry thereby.
Today is another day, and let's have some "good game" on the field today!!
"KEEP UP THE SPIRITS, BOYS AND GIRLS, KEEP UP THE SPIRIT!!!"

YESTERDAYS GUTS.

"PUMP ME UP! PUMP ME UP!"
Yesterdays Guts between U.S.A and Sweden was shourly "PUMPED UP!"
High temperature and lots of guts made this game a "good game".
U.S.A took the first point, and Sweden came back and wone the second.
After a thrilling third set, U.S.A really pumped up and made this game their game.
U.S.A:2 SWE:1
"GOOD GAME LAD'S, GOOD GAME!!"

The Real Frisbee story.

Most people think that the frisbee history started inn the 1940's in Frisbie baking company. We must tell you that we're happy to tell you the real story. Actually it all started in Norway in 1090. The vikings in eastern Norway where fighting the vikings in western part of the country. They used swords and shields in the enormous battle that took place not far from Oslo.

For 6 months more or less, no new land was captured by the easterners, but then one of the eastern kings decided to use a new strategy: trowing the shields towards the enemy. And so they did, and one month later they defited the westerners. Can you imagine, to throw a shield with a diameter of one meter isn't easy. By the way, the name of that eastern king was Eirik Shieldsbee. Since he was the King of the freedomfighters, he was named Eirik The Friesbee.

A couple of hundred years later, Eiriks grand, grand, grand son, Haakon Frisbee emigrated to the US. It was one of the norwegians onboard the ship "QUEEN MARY II" that left Europa on 17th of May 1939. Haakon and his wife started two years later to make pizzas in a small shop in New York. And the rest of the story I think all of you know. Isn't it marvellous! We do have something to celebrate this year: A 900 anniversary!!

THE ULTIMATE MASTERS OF ULTIMATE!!!

It's a true pleasure moving my body around the field surrounded by players who are out there for one reason. Only the fun of the game. Although some of the players has to wait some seconds for their body after a run up, they collect themselves for another effort. On my first defense, the player I was trying to cover, came and introdused himself!! "Hey, I'm Neil"! This gives an example of the spirit of the game. I think you have to be a master to have this experience. An experiens in the name of good sportmanship, friendship. And the most important: The fun of the game. So to all you frisbeeplayers out there, hurry up to be a master.

When everybody thought that Australia had sured a victory on the score 14-7, the NORWEGIAN VIKINGS shoved what spirit and stamina they prossess. In a horrible wind at field 3 they took ten points in a row. Enough to win the match 17-14, so watch out if you get the lead on NORWAY!

THURSDAYS MATCH.

Norway against Canada. (Women)
The wind was changing during the match, so there was a lot of zones in defence. Pretty good ones too.

The match was pretty close, but at 6-6, the Norwegian team made a good move. At half time, the scorecard showed 9-6 to Norway.
After the pause, the Canadians came into a good period, and shortly, the score was 11-11.
From this stage of the game, the match got quite intense but fair.
The teams matched points but
Norway finally edged out
Canada 16-14.

PROTEST DECISION EXPLAINED

by Robert L. "Nob" Rauch
Chairman, Tournament Rules Group

By now all of you know of the protest filed by the Finnish team after the conclusion of their 14-15 loss to Sweden on Wednesday. I will outline in this short article the facts of what happened and the reasons for the decision to replay the game Thursday morning.

The Tournament Rules Group (TRG)

The WFDF Statutes stipulate that a TRG be designated at each tournament to adjudicate issues relating to the rules, protests, etc. This group is comprised of three members: a representative of the WFDF Rules Committee, the tournament staff and the players. The TRG at this tournament is me, Ola Torp and Rock Searle of W. Germany, respectively.

Facts

Finland's protest was based on its feeling that it had been incorrectly assessed a point at the start of its game.

It had been determined at the captain's meeting that one point would be awarded to the opposing team for each minute a team was late in starting its game. In the game in question, the scorekeeper states that Sweden was on the line perhaps two minutes late, whereas Finland broke from its huddle and was on the line perhaps three minutes late (one minute after the Swedes).

No specific warning was given to the Finnish captain that a point was about to be assessed. Rather, the game began with Finland scoring the first point, and then looking up at the scorecard to see the score posted as 1-1. Finland immediately questioned the decision and a long discussion ensued. Sweden did not agree to erase the point assessed and Finland decided to play the game under protest. The TRG was not informed of the protest until after the game.

Sweden won the game, which was subject to the time cap, 15-14.

Decision

After the game, the Finnish captain offered a compromise to the Swedes in order to avoid a conflict. Finland was willing to concede victory to Sweden, if the Swedes would agree to consider the point differential of the game to be zero. Sweden did not agree to this offer.

Before the formal meeting, both teams were again asked to work out the matter between themselves. After twenty minutes of discussion, the TRG was asked to formally consider the protest. Both teams presented their case and were excused as the TRG discussed the situation for 30 minutes.

The TRG voted 2 for, 0 against and 1 abstention to uphold the protest. I abstained from voting due to the possibility of a conflict of interest. We presented several options to the teams for consideration and required them to choose an alternative acceptable to both teams. It was decided that a game to 15, cap at 15, no time cap, game starting at 8:30 am on Thursday was the proper way to resolve the matter.

Rationale

The TRG's decision was based on several factors. It appears that inadequate warning was given to the Finnish team. Although the official had informally mentioned that the game was about to start late, no formal announcement or warning was given to the Finnish captain.

Next, I wish the captains had decided to take responsibility for the situation themselves. The game should not have been played without a resolution of the issue. One can understand why the Swedes did not wish to give up a point which they had been awarded by the official, with an interpretation of the rules which was possibly technically correct. Yet one also can bring up spirit of the game issues and question why it was felt necessary to stick to the letter of the rule instead of the spirit of the rule (i.e. to get the game started as close to on time as possible to avoid time caps). It is ironic that the argument over the assessed point caused the game to end twenty minutes into the next scheduled round.

Finally, it was unfortunate that the game had to be replayed. The tournament schedule is already rigorous enough. Despite this drawback, it was agreed by both teams that it was the only fair way to resolve the issue.

Conclusion

The TRG has several recommendations after reviewing this protest.

1. There is a reluctance in Europe to use observers because it is felt that it detracts from the primacy of the players on field. In the same way, players and captains should also accept responsibility for off-field issues and not turn so easily to a third party arbitrator.
2. The principle of the "spirit of the game" only works because players are willing to follow not only the technical aspects of the rules but to interpret them in such a way as to follow the spirit of what they are trying to accomplish. This should cover both on- and off-field behavior.
3. One of the major reasons for issues arising this week stems from the lack of a comprehensive "protocol" manual, which outlines the tournament rules governing off-field issues. The WFDF Ultimate Committee will prepare such standards as soon as possible so that it can be disseminated before tournaments to players and officials so that everyone can be certain of the rules.
4. Finally, we must better balance the organizational demands of standards set with the realities of staffing levels, experience, infrastructure and financial constraints. By making tournaments more complicated to run, we are increasing the possibilities for problems and making it more difficult for the events to be run in the players' best interests.

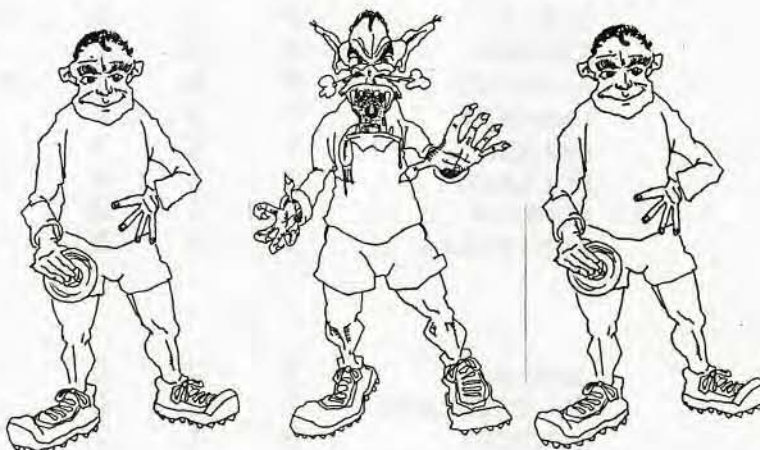

The EFDF-board welcome all European Nations to the yearly meeting Friday 20.00 in meetingroom A.

Following agenda to be discussed.

1. Report from the EFDF-board.
  2. Financial report.
  3. Sanctions for countrys or players, who forget!! to play EFDF-sanctioned tournaments.
  4. Guidelines for EFDF-tournaments, specially indoors.
    - a. Size of playing fields.
    - b. Club team definition.
    - c. Timelimit/score.
  5. Upcoming tournaments.
  6. European team for China.
  7. Bids for out/indoor E.C. 91/92.
- To be prepared for tournaments like E.C we need the work to start 2 years ahead, but we haven't recieved any bids yet. Only E.C. for sure is Colechester/England august 91.

We're looking forward to see you.

GUTS.

Guts Frisbee is the oldest of all Flying Disc Sport, with its origins dating back to the 1930's. There are several claims as to when and where it was first played so the actual date is not verifiable. One thing is certain, the family of Copper Harbor, Michigan, held the first ever Frisbee contest. At their family picnic in 1957, Guts Frisbee was played competitively. This annual picnic evolved into the International Frisbee tournament (FFT), which recently celebrated its 33rd anniversary. In 1978, at the height of the games popularity, the Guts players association was formed. The GPA's first nearly a decade of decline in the U.S., the GPA has reached out to all countries playing this exciting sport. With its increasing popularity in Japan and Europe, Guts Frisbee is now truly an international sport. Guts is cathing!

ROCK-A-BYE BABY

He is leaving Europe. If you know him read on, if you don't you should!!!

Wiesbaden, early morning on Colorado Way, it could also be Am Heienberg - an average day in the life of Steve Searle.

An impressive figure at two meters (he claims 210cm), 100 kilos with clothing and shoe size significantly larger than average, he stands to admire his noteworthy Frisbee collection. He casts a glance at a few of his rare objects. Among them is the first and only 'Team 42' disc, an old 'Space Saucer' and a genuine 'Frisbie Pie' pan. Next to this classic is a rather insignificant specimen from the early eighties.... FREEZE!!

Of course Rock, now we know his official name, has a history as an Ultimate player. Although the early days will remain a mystery, we can report from a reliable source his connection to a team called the "Golden Triangle Z Breeze Disc Club", founded in 1982 in Columbus, Mississippi. In the club literature one can read of a team spokesman Rock: "...yes, we play in the blazing heat of summer and in the cold downpours of winter, we play the game always keeping the 'Spirit' of Ultimate as our prime consideration...", and at the end "...hopefully the team can stay together after Pat and myself move to Germany".

Meanwhile, back in Germany, the Searle family is seated at the breakfast table. Mat is in a bad mood and is playing rather rambunctiously with part of an odd Rhinoceros collection. Rhinoceroses! Rhinos! Rheinos? .....FREEZE!! (hey man, not again, let us play, where's your spirit?)

Our hero was destined to found a Team in Wiesbaden. After all he was in the US Air Force where the people were bound to be able to handle a flying piece of plastic. And the name? The official version is that the practice fields were directly on the shores of the Rhein River; but some teammates tell of a memorable encounter of his with a member of the Rhino species at the Frankfurt Zoo - Rocks psyche for the considerable butt muscle contractions in combination with the rhythm of its massive horn was probably the inspiration that was needed - The Rheinos!!!!!!

How many of these guys have we seen at tournaments since 1985 come and go? Enough for a nice small tournament. If the title was to be awarded, Rock has earned it - who has sent more enlightened players into the world as this "Ultimate missionary"?

Rock takes off for work in his white Daimler Benz which itself reveals his frisbee addiction: License plate FRIZ-B, bumper stickers and lots of plastic in the back seat. The drive to the hospital is far enough to consider inviting Tara and Brock to another tourney in Germany (This guy is an Ultimate missionary even in his own family). His job as a manager at a large hospital demands all of Rocks skill as an organizer with a view for the whole situation. This is exactly what he needs when those from his own herd refer to his job as the caretaker.

Afternoon at house again... In a rush, the necessary training gear for a Rheino practice gets thrown in the car; cleats, p'ntic (Discraft, is there another brand?), ankle warmers, ous sweat bands, and the most important - the super-cool sunshades (whoever knows the true color of Rocks eyes should reveal this to the frisbee world once and for all). The game this afternoon is nothing special. Rock once again shows his underlings that he is the master of the LP-throw (Low Percentage). Chris is in town again and plays diligently with the rest. At the end of the day Chris' bloody nose is evidence of how serious these Rheinos play the game...FREEZE!! FOUL!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

How do you tell at any given tournament in any given town that Rock is present with his Rheinos?

1. Long power cord extensions with video hook-up.
2. Lots of coolers with the coldest contents.
3. The glow in the eyes of ALL the women: They all got their mandatory bear hug.
4. Who but Rock is more than fair and calls his own fouls for you.
5. The tournament awards a "Spirit of the Game" award - and they will win it despite all the F and S's uttered or yelled during the course of the day.
6. English is spoken in the MIXED showers.
7. Wrong question!! It should be: Does anybody recall a tourney at which rock was not seen.

The day comes slowly to an end. But not the activities of our brave soldier. During the preparation of the evening meal Rock is as always banned from the kitchen. As reconciliation, because he is responsible for orderliness and cleanliness, he is allowed to enter directly AFTER the desert ....PICK!! FOUL!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

We have yet to hear anything about Pat - the true soul of the Rheinos? Now when we are talking about cooking? FOUL! She too was a founding member of the legendary Columbus team. And who always remembers all the tournament gear? Cameras, food, liquids and first-aid kit? Who reminds Rock that it is well past time to consider sending the invitations out for the Rheino "Classic" or the Rheino Island golf tournament. Who organizes a quick DFV meeting or picks up yet another pair of sharks? We hear her say "No big deal, it's all for friends". We will miss Pat too.

Meanwhile, Rock is sitting at his Apple computer (is there another brand?). He can relax here and forget the rest of the world - and his participation last week in a mountain bike rally with his new bike in which he unfortunately placed last. Oh well, it was fun and the bike can be sold again. His thoughts wonder to his Master team to which he was again called to be Captain. The World Championships in Oslo 1990; his last tournament in this beloved Europe after so many. His last wheat beers with Motrin, no more Italian restaurants and his last parties with beer races among old friends....

What will the new team in L. A. (lower Alabama) be called? Will there be Rheinos after Rock and Pat? If so, will they really be Rheinos....? TURNOVER!!

There are very few who have changed a sport and its environment the way these two have.

Ultimate players stay in touch, even over long distances. Whoever wants, will see these two again: on the field, with a disc in their hand, throwing what will not be their last long pass.....

Reinhard Witte, Mark-o, and the German Maters.

OVERHEARD ON THE FIELD.

- "Which one is she, the biting her teeth?"
(It was a close game)
- A master comment about getting horizontal:
"The body doesn't say no
it says hmmm.....
to late oh well....."
- Heard after the USA masters beat the Swedish JR. team:
"We taught those Swedish kids a lesson."
(Their first loss in five years.)
- During a long point - one player to another:
"Tell me when it's over"
- "After a foul and freeze:
"Hey come back - stand here!!"
Respons:
"...on one leg or should I do a hand-stand?"

The Ultimate Spirit.

The match Great Britain Vs. Denmark. In this match we saw some brilliant examples of the spirit of the game. At first on "almost" scoring for Britain, Harry (GRB) had the the most beautiful dive at the backline, no one around, and he called him self out. The final point for denmark (on time cap), a pretty good delivery (over 20 yards up against the wind), one of the British players ran down the reserver, so he lost the disc, but the british player gave us the point after a very short discussion. Britain lost the match, with Ultimate spirit at it's peak.

Thanks a lot, GBR.
