Spectator's Guide

The easiest way to understand ultimate is to watch it-the basics of the game are immediately apparent.

Each team has 7 players on the field - substituting only between points. There is more running in Ultimate than any other team game. This years champions will play 7 of the best teams in the world in 2 days.

The Disc is what separates Ultimate from all team sports. The official disc of the Tune-Up Invitational is the 175 gram Ultra-Star by Discraft Inc.

Offense

- The Thrower has ten seconds to throw, but a lot of fakes can happen in that 10 seconds. The two basic throws are the backhand and the forehand. The back-hand is easier to learn because the back of the hand acts as a wind break during release. The forehand has a shorter, quicker windup, and is actually more common in tournament play.
- The Receiver's job is just like in football. Look for cuts, fakes, buttonhooks, long breaks, and players dragging their feet to keep in bounds. In Ultimate, the first point of contact determines in bounds - not both feet.
- Catching the disc is really pretty easy-if you can get your hand on it. Spectacular diving catches are common, especially since the disc floats in the air so long.
- Set Plays are used by most teams at this level of the game, especially whenever play stops. The rest of the time teams use what's called flow offense, which tends to be guided by experience and field sense.
- Offensive styles vary between teams. Some teams throw the disc up field at every opportunity, while others swing the disc across the field before gaining yardage. Throwing up the field is more efficient-it takes fewer passes to score-but it requires harder throws.

Defense

- Defenders are governed by two rules: 1) any contact between players is a foul, and 2) any incomplete pass is a change of possession, (so a knock-down is as good as an interception.) Look for lots of spectacular diving blocks-the slightest change in the disc's flight can be the difference between a completion and a turnover.
- The marker is the player guarding the thrower. Their goal is usually to deny one throw (either forehand or backhand) so that their teammates have less area to cover. The marker's ultimate goal is to block the throw (a "point block"), without letting the thrower "break the mark", i.e. make the throw the marker is trying to stop.
- Person-to-person is the most common defense-each defender covers one offensive player all over the field. This scheme varies with changes in the marker-most teams will either force the thrower towards the sideline (a "side trap") or towards the middle.
- Zone defense is based on letting the offense swing the disc across the field, but blocking all the up field throwing lanes. Most offenses try to go around a zone with lots of easy throws until the zone gets tired-or until the offense makes a mistake. An alternative is to try to throw over the zone with a vertical throw called a hammer, an effective but risky throw into the wind.

Spirit of the Game

Perhaps the most striking feature of Ultimate is that it has always relies on players to make their own calls and to resolve disputes on the fields between themselves.

"highly competitive play is encouraged, but never at the expense of the bond of mutual respect between players, adherence to agreed-upon rules of the game, or the basic joy of play."

All pool play, quarter, and semi-final games are to 13 points. (Finals are to 15 pts.) The 20yd brick rule is in effect. Play the disc where it lands in the endzone off a pull. Two time-outs per game. Men's games have NO half-time. Women's games have a very short half-time. Mirror at half. Cap: Add 1 to the highest score and play to that score. If you are up by 4 or more, game over. Note: the cap goes on at the end of the last point.
